Press Release: CBH Cooperative and Farmers' Cooperative Association to become CBH CO-OP

CBH and FCA are currently energy and agricultural-based companies selling propane, refined fuels, lubricants, feed, seed, chemical, fertilizer, and agricultural-related application services in western South Dakota, eastern Wyoming, and southeastern Montana. CBH and FCA have a strong retail presence in convenience stores, farm stores, and a retail tire center. The merger has come about in order to efficiently and profitably provide products and services to a broad business spectrum.

The cooperatives combined bring 150 years of products and services to a variety of industry and customers.

Jeff Dragseth, CEO/GM expresses his enthusiasm for the change and direction of an expanding and energized cooperative system. "The memberships of both cooperatives have overwhelmingly expressed their support for this unification and look forward to the possibilities and opportunities that can be created by this unification."
